Yog Shibir at Ekta Mahila Mandal, Amravati

A free Yoga Camp was organized at Vidya Bharati Mahavidyalaya Amravati from 17/09/2014 to 23/09/2014. The camp was organised in collaboration with Ekta Mahila Mandal, Rathi Nagar Amravati and Patanjali Yoga Samiti, Amravati at Ekta Mahila Mandal Hall, Rathi Nagar, Amravati. Dr. V. V. Parhate, resource person coordinated the Camp. Total 30 numbers of participants took part in the camp and were benefitted.

Motive behind organizing such programmes is to enlighten women in the society about importance of Yoga and meditation in maintaining the physical and mental health. Also to train the women with different types of yoga & meditation exercises so that they can release their stress. The college believes that women are an important pillar of any society and they should be stress free and should understand the importance of meditation in their daily routine. They could learn & practice Yoga & meditation on their own.

College believes in increasing the area under plantation around the city to educate people about importance of tree plantation. To improve air quality of surrounding area and contributing towards saving and increasing water level of underground water reservoirs as trees helps in percolation of rain water in soil. Trees help nature in balancing the different ecosystem. 80 students participated in the programme. Tree plantation will have positive effect in enhancing the beauty of the city and probably it will secure the city from sever water scarcity.

The area surrounding the tree plantation is likely less polluted and the population of the different flora and fauna has been remarkably increased.

Tree plantation is equal to doing social work or any holy work. All cadets were happy and experienced a proud feeling after the tree plantation event was over, as it really felt great to do positive for the nature.

Medical Check-up Camp Organized for Women in Tribal areas

At Salona Taluka Dharni, Dist. Amravati

Pratibha Women's Study Centre organized a Medical Check-up camp especially for women in Tribal areas. Even the detection of Hb, Blood Sugar, and CBC measurement was conducted through this programme. It was held at Salona Taluka Dharni, Dist. Amravati in collaboration with Prathamik Aarogya Kendra, PHC Salona in Melghat region on 18/02/2015. Activity In-Charge were Dr.V. R. Wankhade and Dr.Archana Ingole. The main objectives of activity were to make women in tribal areas aware of their health and to explain them the important issues of health in simple language.

Initially some women were hesitant to check blood sugar and Hb and CBC hence counselling was provided to them and their blood samples were taken. After the complete data formation and analysis team found that most of the women were anaemic. They had pale yellow tinge in their eyes but most of the women were free from diabetic.
