Workshop on Eco-Friendly Ganpati Idol Making

N.S.S. Department of Vidyabharati Mahavidyalaya, Amravati and GEMS organized the workshop on Eco-Friendly Ganpati Idol making and Clay Modeling Workshop on 4th Aug 2018 at Vidya Bharati Mahavidyalaya, Amravati. As a part of NSS activity, N.S.S. Department of Vidyabharati Mahavidyalaya conducted technical workshop under the Guidance of Mr. Atulji Jirafe for 135 students and 15 professors. All the participants have taken pledge to establish the idols during the Ganesh festival. This activity will reduce the minimum 151 Ganesh idols from market. Ganesh idols with Plaster of Paris have adverse impact over the environment. Since the year, 2018 N.S.S. Department of Vidyabharati Mahavidyalaya have taken efforts to practically involve the students in this activity. Every one of us surely had such delightful talks in our childhood. But this passion to celebrate festivities in a fancy way has led to adverse effects on the basic elements of survival of mankind. Do you know how many Ganeshji idols are being worshipped in our beloved institute? The answer is more than 1000 under the guidance of Atulji Jirafe who is the great Artist from Amravati. Now just think of what happens when all these idols along with the Pooja remains are immersed in the Wadali Lake which is the only big water body around the Institute. According to a study, these hundreds of kilograms of waste decreases the pH level from 8.5 to 7.8, increases the temperature by nearly 5-degree centigrade thereby badly affecting the aquatic life and soil quality of the lake.

For this workshop Shadu Mati was purchased from the local market of course without the help of our college principal Dr. F.C. Raghuwanshi and Management this workshop could not have become possible. Dr. N.R.Thorat

N.S.S. Programme office took a great effort for the success of the workshop.
