

Best Practice I: Improving Teaching-Learning Process

Vidya Bharati Mahavidyalaya is a well known institute for its quality in higher education. The institution has established Academic and Administrative Audit Committee for fostering intellectual and quality culture in the campus and to maintain complete transparency in the institutional academic functions. Feedback Mechanism is also implemented in the college to correctly gauge the impact of all the efforts taken by the institution. The institution also has an academic calendar for Effective and efficient planning, attaining pre-determined purposes and the overall national socio-economic development of the learners. Our institute takes initiatives and provides all the ICT based facilities to the learners to improve the teaching-learning process.

In the broad concept, teaching-learning process is classified into four types: Classroom based, Experiential, Participative and Problem-solving methodologies.

We have provided few photographs of each type.
